SHERIFF BEGINS DRIVE AGAINST CAMP OF HOBOES

Accepts Suggestion Of County Judge: "Rid County" Is Order

Sheriff Fred Richardson started out this afternoon on a campaign of destruction. His objective was every hobo camp in Lee county and those in the vicinity of Dixon were the first to be visited. All of the equipment in the camps was destroyed and every tramp found was advised of the new order of things in Lee county that tramps must leave the county and that no hobo camps will be permitted. The sheriff's order went out to every one of his several deputies throughout the county, ordering the immediate destruction of all equipment in hobo camps and their permanent abandonment.

With the breaking up of the "jungle" along Green river south of Amboy, which has been a large hobo camp for a number of years, following the brutal assault upon William Powers, well known Amboy grocer whose kindness to tramps has covered a period of many years a few weeks ago, tramps are now now permitted in that city.

Two Camps Visited This leaves the next largest camps of this kind south of Dixon along the Illinois Central tracks and at Nelson. These camps were the objective of Sheriff Richardson's campaign today, acting upon the recommendations of County Judge Leach yesterday. All tramps were advised to keep out of Lee county in the future.

The police department this morning issued tickets to tramps for trespassing on the Dixon Community Kitchen, and Chief Van Bibber stated that there are no hobo camps within the city.

New Order at Kitchen To prevent a revival of the habit of begging from private homes a new program was inaugurated to the community kitchen. The order provides that any tramps passing through Dixon will be fed one meal upon registering their name and address at the kitchen. The order was emphatic that any individual desiring to be fed would first be required to sign the register. In this way it was expected that duplication would be prevented and that no individual would receive more than one meal.

Dixon citizens are subscribing to this institution, many for the sole reason that its existence has put a stop to back door begging, a member of the kitchen committee stated this morning. "We will continue to feed tramps passing through Dixon but there will be an order requiring them to sign a register, giving their name and address. They will be given but one meal and then advised to leave the city and county as no further meals will be furnished to that individual. We hope to be able in this way to continue to keep tramps away from private homes and stop begging on the streets."

Earl Major of Hillsboro, who was appointed today as a Federal Judge for the Southern Illinois District, is serving his fourth term as Congressman from the 21st district, which includes Springfield. Hankow, Hupeh Province (Central China, Aug. 17)—(AP)—Wide-spread floods of the Yellow River in northern China were said today to have caused 50,000 deaths in the last few years.

To add to the misfortunes of the destitute population, bandits have appeared in the submerged areas in Honan province north of here and are plundering towns and villages, robbing the victims of everything that can be carried away.

Honan provincial authorities have sent an armored train as far north as possible and troops have been deployed along the southern edges of the flooded district with orders to shoot anyone caught looting.

Flood Continues In Honan the river, called "China's Sorrow," was reported as having ceased rising, but in Shantung province, farther to the northeast, the water continued to rise. Dozens of towns and villages in western Shantung were destroyed today as the flood waters moved slowly toward the river's mouth.

GRAIN TRADING SUDDENLY CAME TO LIFE TODAY

Many Days Stagnant Inaction Ended In Price Advances

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP)—The grain market suddenly came to life today after many days of stagnant inaction and all cereals closed higher. Price fluctuations were limited by Board of Trade regulations to from three to five cents either higher or lower than closing prices of the previous day.

Corn was the leader in the march into higher grounds, all deliveries closing at the four cent maximum permitted and about seven cents better than the lowest prices of the day. Oats also went up the three cent limit and wheat which at one point was about seven cents up, closed as a gain of between two and three cents.

Closing prices for corn were September 49 3-8, December 54 3-8, May 60 1-8. May wheat stopped at 97 cents. Rye and barley also ended the day with net gains approaching the maximum.

Traders attributed the abrupt change in the trend of the market to renewed confidence as a result of pegged minimum prices.

Former Pastor Dixon Lutheran Church Injured

Dixon friends will be grieved to learn of an accident which befell Dr. T. F. Dornblaser, well known and popular pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church many years ago. While crossing Clark St. in Chicago on Tuesday evening at about 5:30 o'clock he was knocked down by a street car and suffered a fracture of the left arm between the shoulder and elbow and other bruises.

Mrs. Mabel Phillips writes Miss A. Geisenheimer today: Dr. Dornblaser is now a patient at the Augustana hospital where he will be for several weeks. The attending physicians say he is marvelous to stand the shock in such wonderful manner as the doctor is 92 years old.

Financed Campaign He explained he served as campaign manager for the Democratic party for a number of years and "at times it became necessary for me to make advances for which I subsequently was reimbursed. I did not consider when I filed my income tax returns in those years that the repayment to me of those advances could be considered as income."

He returns were examined at the time, he said, and no question was raised regarding the repayments but subsequently the Income Tax Division claimed the sums should be so regarded.

"When the government held that such repayments should be treated as income I made a full statement of the facts," the statement said. "The government still contended I owed the money and I paid it." He said that because his income was in the higher tax bracket the added tax with penalties and interest for failure to schedule brought total amount of the settlement to approximately $100,000.

CLOSED ON MAY '32 Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—The income tax assessment code, which Mayor Kelly of Chicago announced he had settled was closed in May 1932.

The Mayor said yesterday he had paid approximately $100,000 on what he considered a simple business transaction. While officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau declined to go into details of the case they said today it had been settled to the "satisfaction of the government."

The reticence of the officials was not unusual as it is a violation of law for a government employee to discuss the income tax paid by any taxpayer or to divulge any of the information contained in his income tax return.

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP)—A 13-word letter President Lincoln wrote to the Secretary of the Navy was the object of a police search today after Albert Bahlgquist, manager of the Wigwag exhibit of the Lincoln group at the World's Fair, reported it stolen from a display case.

The missing was dated Feb. 23, 1865 and said: "Will the Secretary of the Navy please send me and bear this Connecticut gentleman?"

An air of mystery was attached to the reported theft as Bahlgquist said the case did not appear to have been forced open.

CHICAGO MAYOR EXPLAINS "TAX MYSTERY" TODAY

Says He Settled Federal Income Tax For About $100,000

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly today disclosed in a statement he had settled some time ago a claim by Federal income tax authorities for "approximately $100,000."

Terminating the transaction "now a closed book," the mayor said his statement was in answer to published stories that "made a great mystery out of what I considered a simple business transaction, honestly handled."

"For several recent years I was fortunate in my business dealings," his statement continued.

"It was no secret to my friends that I had large legitimate transactions" with the result, he said his income tax for the years was "in the higher brackets."

He explained he served as campaign manager for the Democratic party for a number of years and "at times it became necessary for me to make advances for which I subsequently was reimbursed. I did not consider when I filed my income tax returns in those years that the repayment to me of those advances could be considered as income."

WRIT FOR ROCK-FORD WOMAN IS EXPECTED SOON

Every Clue Precludes Anyone Else Committing Crime

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17 (AP)—A warrant charging Mrs. May Hanson, 38, with murder in connection with the "torch death" of her divorced husband, Earl Hanson, was asked by State's Attorney Robert Nash. The warrant was expected to be issued late today by Justice of the Peace John R. Snively.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17 (AP)—Investigation of all clues in the "torch death" of Earl Hanson led authorities today to openly accuse the victim's ex-wife of murdering him.

"We have made an exhaustive study of the circumstances of Hanson's death," said State's Attorney Robert Nash, "and have been unable to implicate any one but Mrs. Hanson. All clues preclude the possibility of another person being involved in the slaying. No one but Mrs. Hanson had a possible motive for killing him."

Coroner Walter Julian concurred with Nash's statement. A warrant charging the woman with murder was expected to follow a conference between Nash and Julian.

Held Incommunicado Meanwhile, Mrs. Hanson was held incommunicado in her jail cell. Interrogated again by Prosecutor Nash, she clung to her story that she had not engineered her former husband's death.

"I have told everything I know about it," she told State's Attorney Nash, adding, "I can face my Maker with a clear conscience."

She did not attend the funeral services yesterday of her divorced husband, whom officials believe victim of plot in which some one posed as her husband in his car and person and then sent him to a blazing death with a match.

Bought Gasoline Sunday No definite results were produced from examination of fingerprints on a porcelain basin found near the death scene. Mrs. Hanson admitted ownership of the basin and also that she had bought gasoline Sunday. She also said she had made matches to those found near the burned car in her home.

At the time, the 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. Hanson, attended her father's funeral and again related the story of discovering the blaze after she left her father when he brought her to her mother's house and running down the road to summon aid.

Nelson McCall, filling station operator, who said he sold Mrs. Hanson gasoline the day of the fatal fire, was questioned and released by officers after being told to keep himself available for further interrogation.

Officers also investigated reports of long standing ill feeling between the dead milling factory official and his former wife and reports that he had feared violence at her hands.

Mrs. Hanson continued to deny any knowledge of his death and her innocence of any connection with it.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce Out Of Winchell's Cast Through Illness

Hollywood, Aug. 17 (AP)—Blonde Peggy Hopkins Joyce is out of the cast of titling Walter Winchell's "Broadway Through a Keyhole."

Miss Joyce, suffering from a recurrence of an illness she contracted in Chicago recently, left the sound stage of the movie studio where the picture is in production yesterday complaining of weakness.

Lillian Tashman, style-setter on Hollywood boulevard, was engaged to play the part.

A physician ordered Miss Joyce to bed for a week.

The picture on which she was working comes from the scenario that caused Al Johnson to plant one on Winchell's chin a few weeks ago. The columnist is trying to make the actor pay him $500,000 through the courts for having struck him.

"Turn Out Lights", Government Order Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—A "turn-out-the-lights" campaign was launched today by the Postoffice Department as a contribution to governmental economy.

A weekly checkup by postmasters throughout the country to see that employees are turning off lights not needed was requested by Silliman Evans, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, in the Department's daily bulletin. He also asked that lower power bulbs be substituted where possible and that bulbs and globes be kept clean to give maximum light at minimum cost.

NIRA, IOWA, IS ENJOYING BOOM IN POSTOFFICE

New NIRA Stamps On Sale There; Collectors Storm Place

Nira, Iowa, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Industry boomed in the ramshackle postoffice of Nira today with first official sales here of the NIRA stamp, emblem of the National Industrial Recovery program. In homage to its name, Nira was first after Washington to sell the new three cent stamp. And the population of 20, five families, was ready for the occasion. Crowds of stamp collectors pored in eager to buy a Nira stamp, and attach it to a letter to be cancelled in the local post office. In the last week collectors mailed thousands of packets, each containing from one to 25 envelopes to be stamped and mailed out today. For 40 years outgoing mail has been cancelled by hand by Postmaster E. J. Yoder and his clerks. Today nearly a dozen clerks were on hand, aided by an electric cancellation machine. To the 20 inhabitants, the stamp boom was the first major business activity since a coal mining flurry in 1892. A depot, the postoffice housed in Yoder's general store, and a few houses comprise the village. "We needed a new deal here, all 20 of us," one old resident remarked. Today the "New Deal," brief as it may be, arrived because Nira was the only town of that name in the United States.

FORMER CUBAN EXILES MAY BE GIVEN OFFICES

Menocal And Mendieta Awaited By The New Cuban Leaders

Havana, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Cuba awaited today the return from exile of former President Mario G. Menocal and Col. Carlos Mendieta and wondered what part they will play in reconstruction plans of the new provisional government. Qualified observers professed to see a possibility that the two famous leaders against the overthrow regime of Gerardo Machado might ride back into favor, take an important role in President De Cespedes' administration and help solve the political and economic issues borne of last week's revolution. Colonel Mendieta, one time congressman and newspaper editor (El Herald) who first took up arms in 1906 and since has been linked with revolutionary activities, went to Florida on Feb. 18, remarking that "liberty is crushed in Cuba." Directed Junta General Menocal has been in the United States more than a year, during which time he has directed activities of a revolutionary junta. As early as February he declared the time was at hand for the revolution that came last Saturday, when Machado and several followers, in their turn, became exiles. However, Menocal denies having political aspirations, despite the acclaim given him when the Conservative Party, the only group not submerged in the Machado overthrow, voted to depart from a policy of co-operation last month. Also expected is the return of Col. Aurelio Hevia, former Secretary of War and of the Interior Department who, like many another, has served prison terms for revolutionary activity, and Sergio Carbo, newspaper editor who in May was charged with inspiring a rebellion in Oriente Province. Ambassador To U. S., Marquis Sterling, former Cuban Ambassador to Mexico, accepted appointment today as Ambassador to the United States. Sterling, who is now in Washington, cabled his acceptance to Provisional President De Cespedes. Dr. Manuel Marquez Sterling will succeed Oscar Cintas, wealthy son-in-law of the late Colonel Jose M. Tarafa, the sugar magnate, at the Washington post, Cintas was Ambassador for only about a year. Dr. Sterling resigned as Ambassador to Mexico Aug. 6, 1932. He quit that post because, he said, he was not in sympathy with the internal policies of the Machado administration. He refused to accept any other commission from the government.

HUGE INCREASE IN JOBS, WAGES CLAIMED TODAY

Secretary Of Labor Gives Figures To Back Claims

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins announced today that approximately 400,000 factory workers returned to jobs in July and that the purchasing power of all workers in manufacturing plants had increased about $29,000,000 in weekly wages in July compared with March. The Labor Secretary, on the basis of reports by her experts, estimated the re-employment of 1,500,000 wage earners in the manufacturing industries between March and July and figured that another 300,000 additional workers went back to their jobs in 16 non-manufacturing industries, excluding the railroad and agricultural industries, in the same period. Analyzing a large batch of figures in a conference with newspaper men, Miss Perkins said the manufacturing industry weekly pay rolls increased $7,500,000 in July over June. If the increase was maintained at the present rate, she said it would add $300,000,000 by December 31 to the payrolls for the year. maintained. The selection, retention and advancement of employees will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor or other organization." To Speed Oil Charter President Roosevelt renewed his drive to establish permanent working codes for basic industries, calling in Johnson and Secretary Ickes to speed the charter for oil. Secretary Ickes, who is administering the government's regulation of the oil industry, and General Johnson were the first callers on the President's list today. Roosevelt obviously wants to establish the new codes for shorter working hours and higher wages for the remaining basic industries—oil, steel and coal—before he leaves the White House Saturday night. Johnson talked with President Roosevelt in advance of meeting with leaders of the petroleum industry, postponed an hour to permit the Administrator to visit the White House. Some NRA officials intimated that Johnson, on meeting with the oil men about noon, would ask them to accompany him back to the White House. To Reconcile Data Intense oil agitation has shoved into the background for the moment the important steel code. Johnson and his Deputy Kenneth M. Simpson were devoting all their time to the proposed oil code they carried to the White House. Simpson told newspapermen it was unlikely that he could find time today for work on steel although he might possibly have some conversations late in the afternoon. Steel representatives, and Dr. Alexander Sachs, Johnson's statistical expert, continued to work for the third successive day at the Commerce Department on facts and figures governing wages and working hours in steel. Their problem was reconciling figures presented at the steel hearing by Secretary Perkins and those brought to Washington by the big steel companies. The results of their work on statistical data will be placed before Johnson to aid him in reaching his decision on the steel code. K

SALES TAX PUT ON UTILITIES' OUTPUT TODAY

State Finance Dept. Calls For Tax On Electricity, Etc.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The two per cent sales tax, the State Finance Department ruled today, must be paid by private and municipally-owned utility companies supplying electricity, gas and water to patrons for use or consumption. Finance Director Joseph J. Rice announced that the tax must be paid by the companies, not by the consumers, and that the ruling is retroactive so that tax returns for July must be filed a once by the utility companies. The department in administering the sales tax has defined tangibles as "things or substances that may be touched, felt, observed, that are perceptible, palpable, capable of being possessed or realized, tactile, readily apprehensible to the mind; real, substantial, evident; and consist of substances that may be taken out of the ground and reduced to possession and conveyed by pipe lines or other means, measured or sold, and similar substances that may be produced, mechanically, chemically or otherwise and so conveyed and sold." Upon his definition, electricity, gas and water were defined as tangibles. Before the belated ruling was announced, several conferences were held with representatives of utility companies.

SEVEN ACCUSED KILLERS MUST BE TRIED SOON

Chicago Judges Act To Speed Up Criminal Hearings

Chicago, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A woman and six men charged with murder were caught in the current of Chicago's new system of quick justice today and all of them informed they must face a jury within two weeks. Prosecutors pointed out that were it not for speeding up of the courts with judges sitting in emergency sessions the trials probably would not be called for several months. All of the killings were committed recently. Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, 36, mother of two children, smiled broadly at Chief Justice John J. Prystalski as she replied, "not guilty," to a charge that she assisted in the wanton killing of 71-year-old Gustave Hoen, clothier, in a robbery. Trial was set for Aug. 26. Her two co-defendants, George Dale, 28, and Leo Minneer, 27, likewise pleaded not guilty. Each has blamed the other for the killing. Then came John Schack, bank robber and killer, for arraignment on a murder charge for killing Policeman John G. Sevik in a wild dash for liberty from the same court room two weeks ago. His case was set for next Monday. The other murder defendants, all of whom pleaded not guilty, were Chester Gallas and James Kuratko, charged with killing a street car conductor in a robbery, and Morris Cohen, accused of slaying Policeman Joseph Hastings several days ago when Hastings interrupted a currency exchange robbery. Cohen's case also was set for Monday.

Butter Surplus May Be Taken Off Market By Gov't.

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Emergency action by Secretary Wallace in an effort to take some of the butter surplus off the market and increase prices for the product was strongly indicated today at the Farm Administration. A committee representing dairymen's associations over the country gathered today at the department and protested what they called delay in action to stabilize the price of dairy products. An official announcement was contemplated at the Farm Administration and members of the delegation said they thought the emergency action would take the form of an equalization fee to dispose of an accumulating surplus of butter and probably other by-products of milk. The proposal strongly favored was that a one cent pound levy be made on butter fat. This would be used to repay a drawing account which the dairymen would have on Treasury funds. 85 PER CENT OF NERVOUS ILLS ARE COMPLICATED WITH EYE STRAIN AS THE PRIMARY CAUSE.—Phone 160, Dr. Aydelotte, Neurologist. 1931.

SCRAPPING OF MONROE'S PACT IS DISCUSSED

Effect Of Action On Trade Relations Is Considered

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Suggested scrapping of the century old Monroe Doctrine has injected a new element into thought being given just now to building up more profitable trade relations between the United States and its Latin-American neighbors. But the advisability of abandoning the signpost, put up in 1823 by President Monroe, against European trespassing in America's back yard, promises to be much debated if it gets beyond the suggestion stage. Coming from Chairman Pittman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee right after his return from the London economic conference the suggestion invited considerable attention. Asked if he planned to take active steps when Congress reconvenes, the Nevada Democrat did not say he would, but his pronouncement indicated his attitude should the proposal to discard it be advanced in the Senate. Nineteen Dangerous Age For Boys Table Of Statistics Says

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Latest tables showing that 19-year-olds topped the lists of arrests for serious offenses in the first six months of 1933 brought suggested solutions today from a number of persons especially alive to the problem. The Justice Department's report showed that from January to June it examined 159,493 finger prints records of arrests. Individuals aged 19 outnumbered all others. Although 19-year-olds exceeded 18-year-olds by only 19 per cent in total arrests, their offenses were graver. Age 19 exceeded age 18 by 74 per cent in criminal homicide; 37 per cent in carrying weapons; 34 per cent in assault; 27 per cent in robbery. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's analysis was that youthful crime has risen largely because the age of criminal life has been idealized. "The right kind of education has to come back," was her solution. "The youthful crime trend is not new. It has been going on for years. Many things have contributed. Partly it's love of adventure not turned to useful outlet. Partly it's because boys who have finished school can't get jobs. But it can't be blamed upon the depression. Good times as well as bad have contributed." Big Families Vie at Trask Outing

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17—Families may not be as large as they were in the good old days of one or two generations ago but Burrill Grange, sponsor of the Trask bridge picnic, to be held this year on Wednesday, Aug. 30, is anxious to show that there still are large families.

The picnic, long famous as the world's largest farm outing, is pretty much a farm family affair and as an added inducement for families to be represented 100 per cent at this year's event there will be a largest family contest with suitable awards.

At the Trask picnic two years ago a Byron family of 10 children won the largest family championship. A Rockford family of five children was second.

There will be lively bids for other "rural" championships at this year's picnic, among them the holders of husband calling, hog calling, wood-chopping, horseshoe pitching and bundle tying titles.

Trask bridge picnic will be held again this year at Andrews grove, 11 miles north of Rockford on the Kiburn avenue road, now newly paved. It will be the 23rd annual outing and with fair weather it is expected that the attendance of between 25,000 and 30,000 of past years will be equalled or surpassed.

Ladies Day at C. C. Wednesday Proves a Most Decided Success

Ladies day at the Dixon Country club on Wednesday proved to be a decided success. Guests were entertained at golf and bridge from three-out-of-town clubs, Freeport, Clinton and DeKalb, there being between fifty and sixty in attendance. After a morning of golf, followed by a most delicious luncheon, many of the ladies stayed to join the bridge players for the afternoon.

In the bogey tournament Miss Betty Morton of Freeport had low score for the day being 8 up. Miss Jackie Armstrong of Clinton was second with 6 up on bogey, and Mrs. Hazel Oakland won the prize from DeKalb, 3 up on bogey. These three guests were presented with beautiful tilt-top bridge tables which were most graciously donated by Mr. L. A. Neis for the occasion.

Putting prizes were won by Mrs. A. Smith of Freeport, Mrs. Ward of Clinton and Mrs. C. Smith of DeKalb.

Mrs. Willard Thompson won the prize from Dixon, 5 up on bogey and Mrs. L. A. Neis won the putting prize.

Lemons Valuable In The Kitchen

Always keep two or three lemons in your kitchen. It's amazing how many ways they can be used to dress up the food you serve.

For instance, one slice of lemon in a cup of clear bouillon gives the soup a tart flavor, and a decorative touch.

Peaches which have been peeled and sliced turn black when exposed a short while. But they won't turn black at all if you sprinkle them with fresh lemon juice as soon as they are sliced.

A Cauliflower Bouquet For This Vegetable Dinner!

Stuffed Tomato Is Given A Central Position

By NEA Service—
Cold vegetable plates are about the nicest things you can serve on a hot, midsummer day. Vegetables supply enough nourishment for the body, but do not overtax the stomach.

Vegetable plates are best served on one large platter, placed right on the table. Everybody helps himself. A few fresh vegetables with an appetizing dressing, crisp rolls and some kind of a sweet dessert constitutes a whole meal.

Your lettuce must be crisp and cold. After washing, wrap it in a clean cloth and put it in the ice box until you are ready to prepare the platter of cold vegetables. In this way it is sure to be crisp and fairly dry. Lettuce, dripping with water, will spoil the appearance of the salad and dilute the salad dressing.

If you plan to serve a cold vegetable platter for lunch, set your vegetables all cleaned and cooked in the early hours of the morning before the kitchen gets unbearably hot.

Here's what you will need for a vegetable luncheon. Other vegetables can, of course, be substituted for the ones listed here.

One large tomato, 3 tablespoons of diced chicken and celery salad, 1 large head of cauliflower (quartered), 2 whole beets, 6 fresh asparagus tips, lettuce, sweet pepper and chopped egg for garnish.

On a platter lined with lettuce, place a peeled fresh tomato stuffed with diced chicken and celery, mixed with a teaspoon of mayonnaise.

At each end put a bundle of three fresh asparagus tips covered with a ring of sweet green pepper. Around the tomato place a fan of sliced beets topped with the quartered cauliflower bouquet. This recipe serves two people adequately.

You can serve vegetable lunches again and again if you vary the salad dressings from time to time. Here's the way they make a nice dressing at the Half Moon:

Into a bowl put two tablespoons of prepared mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon of chili sauce, one-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1 tablespoon of whipped cream. Stir the ingredients until they are evenly blended and serve ice cold in a bowl.

both of Moline, were united in marriage at the parsonage to the Methodist church, Dr. Gilbert M. Stansell officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads who were attended by a friend, Milton A. Starnoble, returned to Moline to receive the best wishes of friends.

New This Week At Dixon Library

All Men Are Enemies—Aldington—
A beautifully written romance. The author has not been afraid to display sentimentalism, has even made a parade of it in defiance of the hard-boiled, blasé, and sophisticated. The artistic attitude of the writer is shown in the advice given the hero—"Don't be duped by high-sounding abstractions. Travel, get to know what men are, work at something that interests you, fall in love, make a fool of yourself if you must, but do it all with gusto. That's the main thing, to live your life with gusto."

Soft Spot—Hutchinson—
The author of "If Winter Comes" tells the story of a man whose dishonesty are incredibly lucky. Outwardly, Stephen Wain is a personable young man, well educated and well connected. The soft spot does not show on the surface, but it molded his entire life, and affected the lives of everyone near him.

Meeting of Truth Seekers Classes

The Truth Seekers classes, Section No. 1 and No. 2, of the Bethel U. E. Church met at the home of Mrs. Dora Bothe, with Mrs. Mabel Cramer and Mrs. Emma Thompson assisting hostesses. The meeting was opened with the singing of the hymn, "Love Lifted Me." The Scripture lesson from Luke 6, was read by Mrs. Dora Hess. Prayer was offered by several members. The hymn, "In the Garden," was sung.

The business meeting was opened with two prayers, and Mrs. Georgiana Drew, the president, took charge. Roll call was answered with Bible verses with the word "Joy" in them. There were 47 members and friends present.

Committee reports were given. Other business was transacted and the business period closed with the repeating of the benediction.

A short program was given in charge of Mrs. Mabel Cramer and was as follows:

Duet, "Elbow Room," by Ethel Ziegler and Minnie Ziegler.

Reading, "Being Clinical," by Miss Ruth Pinkerton.

Vocal duet—by Mrs. Jessie Gaul and Mrs. Alma Foster.

A leaflet, entitled "Kid Stuff," was read by seven members, each reading a verse.

Another hymn was sung and the meeting closed by repeating John 3:16.

Tempting refreshments of angel food cake and ice cream were served by the hostesses.

Wear Shorts At Conservative Clubs

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—It took the young ladies a long time to break out in shorts at Forest Hills, America's most conservative tennis capital, but when they finally did—

Helen Jacobs, who first braved semi-official opposition and started the movement for greater comfort and freedom, prefers white flannel shorts with a Prussian blue stripe. In her off court moments she dons a Prussian blue jacket.

Something else again is Grace Subers' outfit of white crepe de chine shorts and blouse. And in-between are all kinds of variations of linen, duck and plain cotton.

The fashion experts say Miss Jacobs, Alice Marble, Josephine Crickshank and Mrs. Harry C. Brunie look best in them.

Delightful Dinner At Lake Lawn Hotel

A party of Dixon friends motored to Lake Delevan, Wis., yesterday, to be present at the delightful dinner party given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Richardson of Dixon for Mr. and Mrs. Edson Fuller of Detroit, Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Richardson of Memphis, Tenn., at the Lake Lawn Hotel. The tables were beautifully decorated for the occasion and afterward the guests greatly enjoyed the Cake Walk given by colored entertainers at the new pavilion. The Dixon guests in attendance at the happy affair were Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Franks, Attorney and Mrs. Grover Gehan, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Gearhart, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bartholomew, Prof. and Mrs. A. H. Lancaster, Prof. and Mrs. A. C. Bowers, Mrs. Anne Wilson and Miss Leola Quirk.

The author's generation, which was still in college in 1913, had an exultant sense of a society sweeping forward to a new well being, an excited interest in the new literature, new art, a quickened belief in the brotherhood of man. The war caught them in the mood to believe the "superb sentiments" on which the leaders of government rationalized its slaughter. The author writes in a white heat of passion at the collapse of their hopes. It is impossible to read her words and not be moved by her indignation and her fear.

CHANGE OF HEART

By HELEN WELSHIMER

I THOUGHT I was through
So I sent you away—
What made you listen?
Why didn't you stay?

FOR now I'm recalling
Small words that you said;
Lilt of your laughter,
And tilt of your head.

SOUND of your step on
A dusk-darkened street
This place and that place
Where we used to meet.

SHOULD you discover
I'm still fond of you,
Would you believe me—
Or what would you do?

REAL STATESMEN NEEDED IN U. S. AND JAPAN.

The clang of the hammers in American shipyards is about to sound at a louder, faster pitch than we have heard in years. Across the Pacific in the shipyards of Japan an equally accelerated clanging is about to begin; and unless all signs fail these two nations will presently be embarked upon a naval building race of the traditional type, in spite of treaties, gentlemen's agreements or any other forms of restraint.

It is very easy for an American to deplore this trend. No one who remembers the outcome of the world's last naval building race—between England and Germany—can be blamed for dreading the advent of a new one. But it is not nearly so easy to say just how this race is to be avoided.

Your pacifist, of course, will remark that the way to avoid a race of this kind is to build no more warships under any circumstances; to let the other chap lay down as many keels as he chooses and to pare your own establishment down year after year, secure in the knowledge that you yourself aren't going to war no matter what happens.

But it isn't likely that many Americans will endorse this plan. The world is still a perilously disturbed and suspicious-racked planet; international policies still have a way of colliding head-on, in spite of all we can do to prevent it; and while war may be a most costly and wasteful way of settling disputes, the world does not seem to have reached the point at which it can assure itself that war will be no more.

In short, America has very solid reasons for maintaining a strong navy, and a government which failed to do so could properly be called short-sighted. And the same thing doubtless can be said of the Japanese.

Which leaves us, perhaps, right where we started—except that it all underlines the heavy responsibility which rests on the shoulders of the statesmen of the two nations. There are, after all, more reasons for the United States and Japan to be friendly than there are for them to be enemies.

This country is Japan's best customer; Japan, in turn, buys heavily from the United States and the development of Japan's Asiatic conquests should logically open still larger markets to American manufacturers.

As both nations prepare for trouble, it should be possible for their statesmen to work out a way whereby they could continue to live in peace.

Self-interest on both sides of the Pacific dictates such a course.

THE VAST JOB OF THE NRA.

The more one studies the program now under way via the NRA, the more does it become clear that a tremendous amount of patience, good sense and straightforward executive ability are going to be required of the host of officials responsible for the program's success.

The sheer bulk of work to be done, to begin with, is appalling. The blue eagle's lieutenants at Washington are tackling one of the most complex jobs ever undertaken by any group of men on earth. Not least of the dangers facing these men is the chance that they may simply get tangled up in red tape.

Furthermore, in working out a way of beating the depression it is quite likely that policies will be laid down which will affect the life of the nation for many years after the depression has passed. The NRA must not only find a workable program for the present; it must find one that will head us in some direction that we are willing to follow more or less permanently.

All in all, it is an almost overwhelming task. That the work so far has been done so well is a good testimonial to the caliber of the men who are on the job.

SOMEBODY USED HIS HEAD.

One of the neatest tricks yet performed by Uncle Sam in his recovery program seems to have been turned along the edges of the Navajo reservation at Shiprock, N. M., in connection with a plague of grasshoppers and a flock of turkeys.

Grasshoppers got so numerous on the reservation that they were destroying the peach orchards and melon patches and threatening the Indians with disaster. So an intelligent federal officer spent $1400 on 1100 young turkeys. The turkeys were turned loose where they would do the most good. Result: the grasshoppers are gone and the turkeys are fat; and the latter will make fine Thanksgiving dinner for the young men of the forest conservation corps.

In this doubtless unimportant little tale there is evidence of sensible action by someone which deserves due commendation. Unfortunately, the dispatches failed to give the name of this unknown genius so he might get due recognition for his feat.

When prohibition goes out, temperance will come into its own. Prohibition made us forget about temperance, but soon we'll forget about prohibition.—Chairman Edward P. Mulrooney of New York state's alcoholic beverage control commission.

We have come to the place in history where we are rearranging the values of life.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

It was a funny sight to see the Tinies, busy as could be, all trying to catch the two fish that were threatening a fight.

"I will get the catfish," Goldy cried. "Oh, look! Right now it is trying to hide. I saw it swim between some rocks. Right now it's out of sight."

"Well, move the rocks," said wee Duncy. "Gee, that seems a simple task to me." And then he tried to push one rock. It didn't move a bit.

"Oh, sure! It is easy," Scouty cried. "I noticed from the way you tried. It, maybe, if we all push hard we really can move it."

And so each Tiny lent a hand. Their feet would slip. It was hard to stand upon the bottom of the sea. "Let's brace ourselves," cried one.

Just then a big fish came along and Shrimpy cried, "My, it looks strong. I'll have it move the rock, lads. It can show you how it is done."

The fish soon did as it was told. Away one of the big rocks rolled. Wee Goldy stood right near at hand and grabbed the small catfish.

She held it in her arms and said "Don't worry. Be real glad. Instead, You've had a speedy chase, and you can rest now, if you wish."

"Now go get the dogfish," Duncy said. "It is easy, if you use your head." "Oh, yeah?" answered wee Scouty. "I have tried to catch him twice."

"But I'll keep trying till I do. Then I'll tell him a thing or two. Instead of pestering the catfish, he must be real nice."

Once more the dogfish started past and Scouty shouted, "Ah, at last I have the little fellow!" Then he held it good and tight. "Now, listen, funny fish," said he. "Please be as nice as you can be. Don't chase the catfish any more. Then all will be all right."

(A deep-sea diver surprises the Tinies in the next story.)

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE STORY OF SAMUEL

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
(Editor of The Congregationalist)

The old question whether heredity or environment influences the character and destiny the more does not enter into a study of the life of Samuel, the great prophet and judge of Israel. Here both heredity and environment combined to shape character and destiny. Already we have had a picture of the earnestness and devotion of his mother, and we have seen how his mother's spirit created for his early life the environment of the temple.

But all that Samuel became and all that he did cannot be credited to environment and heredity alone. The sons of Eli, the high priest, might well have been called to succeed their father in righteousness and service, but they chose instead to follow base and ignoble ways, and they surrounded their father's high ministry with disgrace.

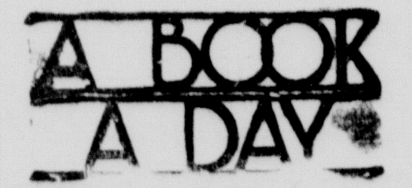

Samuel responded to his heredity and environment with a noble will and a high purpose. He recognized his destiny, and he did everything to fulfill it. We see him in the temple as a faithful child, called in his tender years by that voice that prompts men to unselfish sacrifice and service. It is easy to see in the circumstances of Samuel's call something strange and miraculous—a voice speaking to him in the same way as many others have claimed that they have heard voices speaking to them and directing them to certain tasks or courses. It is simple and easier, however, to assume that Samuel's call was in line with his spirit of devotion. The call came as he had lain down to sleep though it is not clear whether he was sleeping or waking. Probably he was in that borderland of dreams when his waking consciousness, and earnestness of purpose were still affecting him.

With clear insistence the call came, and supposing that it was Eli who had summoned him, Samuel responded. Eli, when the child came a third time, had the good sense to see that there was something deep and significant in what was happening to the child. So he instructed Samuel when the call came again to respond; and in response to the call Samuel was summoned to his way of responsibility and service.

In contrast to this picture of Samuel's call in childhood is the portion of our lesson which presents him as an old man, somewhat disappointed in the attitude of Israel in turning from him to seek a king, but conscious of his own integrity, modestly reminding the people that he has lived among them without self-seeking, and that throughout his whole life he has served them with unselfishness and high purpose.

The two pictures, of childhood and old age, do not give us the full portrait of Samuel. In both portions of our lesson there is a tenderness that was not always associated with these rough and crude times. Samuel had harsh as well as difficult tasks to perform. He did things that accorded to our modern standards were incredibly cruel, such as the hacking of Ahab in pieces. But the one thing that is sure is that in all of his actions he was conscientious and unselfish. His only purpose was to serve the commonwealth; and if every man displayed that purpose in his aspirations and deeds we should be much nearer the attainment of a real commonwealth.

A FAILURE, BUT IT'S STILL A FINE BOOK
By Bruce Catton

The unending conflict which the world of the spirit must wage with the workaday world of every-day life has found expression in everything that the very gifted H. M. Tomlinson has written. His exposition of this conflict has led him to create some extremely fine literature; but in the case of his latest book, "The Snows of Helicon," it has caused him to write a novel which cannot be classed otherwise than as a failure.

"The Snows of Helicon," that is, fails because the narrative gets lost in Mr. Tomlinson's metaphysics. What purports to be a story becomes a series of soliloquies, a loosely-connected chain of essays. This doesn't matter so much, perhaps, because Mr. Tomlinson is always worth listening to. But you can't help feeling that a good story has been spoiled.

The book is the story of an English architect. The architect feels that modern man has won the world at the price of his immortal soul; he has gained power but he has lost the spirit of beauty.

The architect learns that an industrial concern has bought an island in the Aegean Sea and is going to tear down an ancient temple to Apollo in order to erect some sort of modern improvement. It seems to him supremely important to prevent this from happening. He gives himself up to a quixotic effort to save the old temple and finally, loses his life in the attempt.

The thread of action gets spun pretty thin. Now and then it vanishes altogether. But even so, "The Snows of Helicon" is abundantly worth reading. Mr. Tomlinson has something to say, and he says it beautifully.

HOW THE GREATEST FORTUNE WAS BUILT
By Bruce Catton

"Mellon's Millions," by Harvey O'Connor

BLATZ—The Prince of Drinks

Leads them all!

Old Heidelberg BEER

WALTER C. KNACK

501 West First Street Phone 423

Connor, is subtitled, "The biography of a fortune." It is really a lot more than that. It is a searching critique on modern American life, a study of the way we have tried to make democracy and industrialism trot along the road together in double harness.

Mr. O'Connor takes your Uncle Andy and shows just how he got where he is. This wispy, patrician-looking magnate is shown as the son of a penny-pinching Pittsburgh banker, a man who was trained from boyhood as a money-getter and who never once missed a trick.

The Mellons, suggests Mr. O'Connor, simply established themselves at Pittsburgh and leaved toll on the amazing development of industry there. They had an iron in every fire; they were bankers, steel men, coal men, oil men, aluminum men, promoters, stock salesmen, railroad men and public utility men. They bought labor cheap, says Mr. O'Connor, and sold its products dear; and today the family fortune is probably the largest in the nation.

With Mr. Mellon's record as treasury chief Mr. O'Connor is caustic. The boom and its resulting crash stem directly from the Mellon fiscal policies, he asserts. For a decade the country was run to suit its oligarchy of wealth; today's troubles, he suggests, are the logical and inevitable result.

This book is not precisely an attack on the Mellons. It is something deeper. It continually raises the question: can a country in which a fortune can be built up as this one was built up truly be called a free democracy?

A more genuinely valuable book probably will not be published all year.

Daily Health Talk

TREATING HAY FEVER

Three factors enter into the making of a hay fever case: a sensitive and predisposed constitution, a sensitive portal through which the hay fever pollen might gain entrance into the body, and the pollen itself.

Treatment for hay fever therefore is based on one or more of these factors. The patient can escape being exposed to the pollen by moving to pollen-free sections.

Hay fever treatment usually follows other lines of attack. The most common aims at the desensitizing of the patient.

In this treatment it is necessary first to establish the pollen to which the individual is sensitive. This can in a large number of instances be established by testing the skin of each patient with extracts of various pollens.

When the patient is tested with the pollen to which he is sensitive the local skin reaction is markedly different from his response to other pollen extracts.

Once the responsible pollen is discovered specific treatment can be begun. This treatment consists in the injection into the patient of increasingly larger doses of the offending pollen. Through this treatment the body is desensitized and a tolerance for the responsible pollen is established.

Injectations usually are begun eight to 10 weeks before the pollen season. The best results, it is reported, are obtained when inoculations are continued at the rate of one a month after the season is over.

If the hay fever symptoms are already upon the patient, the injection treatment can bring him a certain amount of relief.

The relief may persist for several seasons.

You get more speed, too—78 actual miles per hour. Your Pontiac holds the road better—rides more comfortably—because it's a big car, with 115-inch wheelbase and well-distributed weight (3265 pounds, curb weight, for the 4-door Sedan). And it's the only car in its price range with the Fisher Ventilation System—greatest comfort factor since the development of the closed body.

There just isn't anything to compare with Pontiac at its price. In Fisher Body beauty—in comfort—in Straight Eight performance. That's why America is buying Pontiacs. That's why you'll prefer Pontiac, too.

BULLETIN
A last minute change in the schedule of bouts to be held this evening at the Crawford Maples arena, made necessary the securing of an opponent for Ray Wilson local heavyweight, Al Johns of Peoria, who was scheduled to meet the Dixon heavyweight knockout puncher, was taken ill and could not appear. Matchmaker Ed Hooker was fortunate in being able to secure, who will take Johns' place in the ring this evening, which should provide an added feature of entertainment to the program of bouts.

Aurora and Peoria boxers will clash in the ring at the Crawford Maples arena this evening in a series of bouts in which the batters will have their first meeting. Matchmaker Ed Hooker has been successful in securing the ring stars of both cities for this week's show at a central location and the Dixon A. Another double windup will be featured, the main bout bringing together George Franzén of Aurora and Keith Graves of Peoria in the 147 pound class. Franzén is rated as one of the best in his class in Illinois and Graves' ability, which has been demonstrated in the local ring this season, makes this number a sure battle.

Whitely Loefer of the Aurora stable will meet Cliff McKee of Peoria in the other featured bout at 150 pounds. The Peoria boxer has become a favorite with the local fans and will meet a tough customer in the Kane county product. Jimmy Daniels and Al Reeder have been matched in the 155 pound class. The latter has punched out a number of victories in the local ring during the present and last season.

Eddie Hepburn and Walter Adams will appear in the 126 pound division. It will be the first appearance of both boxers before the fans of this locality. Ray Wilson, the hard hitting heavyweight of Dixon, will trade punches with Al Johns of Peoria in the 185 pound class. Wilson will attempt to add another knockout to his long string of victories.

In the opener, Ed Poliski of Aurora has been matched with Clyde Thompson of Peoria at the 120 pound weight. Both are starting out on their boxing careers and have been successful in many bouts. Jack Sharkey will referee the bouts.

Poor Nell—
Primo Carnera's entourage isn't doing right by our Nell. Little Nell has been waiting patiently ever since Max Baer beat Max Schmeling and the guy with the big feet beat Jack Sharkey, to see the natural between the two victors.

All year the little darlin' listened to fairy tales that rivalled those of Grimm, about how these two fighters, man mountain and giant killer, were to tangle in the battle of the century after they had brushed off their respective opponents.

And now Nell reads in the papers—yes, little Nell is old enough to read—about how that mean old Mister Louis P. Scola, manager of Carnera, says that the new champ "prefer" to fight the winner of a match between Paulino Uzcudun and Dan McCormick, English champion, but will accept the beetle-browed Uzy without qualifications for a bout in Rome in October if an elimination bout can't be arranged.

Public Pays and Pays—
It's hard to realize in these days of empty pockets and vacant night arenas how Carnera's nest of managers can all agree to pass up a brawl with Baer. Here they've been whetting the appetites of little Nell and John Public for this natural ever since Carnera stopped Sharkey's boasting.

And now they've got down to the business of giving the public the run-around.

The natural reaction in the hearts under the homespun shirts of the fight public is to turn sour on the whole business and mark down Carnera as a cheese champ who's afraid to meet Baer.

Ballyhoo before the Max Baer-Max Schmeling and the Carnera-Sharkey shindigs indicated that Baer and Carnera would emerge victors and shortly after mix for the title. On that promise the boys attended both fights like good soldiers and helped the promoters make a handsome piece of change.

Who Is Uzcudun?

No one in the United States is interested in the outcome of a Carnera-Uzcudun fight, and it's a good thing they are holding it in Rome, for the fans would stay away in droves if it were held in this country. Uzy is all washed up, and is no man to mix with anyone for the heavyweight title.

The fans want to see a Carnera-Baer fight, and the majority of them want to see it because they harbor the belief that the crown belongs to the United States, and they want to see that slam-bang guy Baer pop in there and lift it off the brow of the native of Musolinland.

The whole thing is just another dark-hued optic for the fight business, a racket that can't afford to have many more such decorations before it folds up its tent.

YANKEES, CUBS ALL BUT OUT OF PENNANT RACES

Lou Gehrig, Out For New Record Today, Is Only Happy Yank

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Lou Gehrig was ready today to tuck away the toughest of all major league baseball records in his hip pocket and go on playing baseball. But his club the New York Yankees, faced the painful knowledge that they were 6 1-2 games behind the league leading Washington Senators and all but out of the pennant race.

For the stolid, sturdy Lou, it was just a matter of going out there and playing another game and taking the honors that went with his record achievement as much in his stride as he has the 1,307 games that have gone before. Yesterday he played his 1,307th consecutive game since he broke into the Yankee lineup way back in 1925. That equaled the record set by Everett Scott, with the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees. Today Gehrig was due to establish a new mark, to receive a silver cup from President Will Harridge of the American League and a lot of homage from the fans in honor of the occasion.

Browns Down Yankees

Gehrig led all the Yankee hitters yesterday but at that he got only two hits off his former team mate, "Satchel" Ed Wells, while the St. Louis Browns hammered young Charles Devens, Danny MacFayden and George Uhle for 18 hits and a 13 to 3 victory. That happened while Washington was scoring a 5 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

With Earl Whitehill on the mound and pitching shutout ball except for Luke Appling's homer in the fifth, the Senators pecked away at Milt Gaston's delivery and piled up plenty of runs to gain their eighth straight victory.

Down where the race is close, the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers came through with a pair of shaky victories and remained tied for fourth place. The Indians edged out the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-2 on a ninth inning run produced by singles by Dick Porter, Bill Cissell and Earl Averill. Detroit beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-5 by bunching its blows off Lloyd Brown and checking Boston's late rally.

Giants Boost Lead

The New York Giants increased their National League lead a bit with their 20th shutout victory of the season at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds. Pittsburgh got only an even break in a doubleheader with Brooklyn and Boston knocked off Chicago's Cubs for the second time. This put the Giants four games up on the Pirates, and 5 1-2 ahead of the Cubs and sent Boston into fourth place by a one-point margin over the St. Louis Cardinals who divided with the Pirates.

Hal Schumacher delivered the Giants their victory by a 5-0 score blanking the Reds with five hits and rapping three for himself. Danny Taylor and Van Mungo kept Pittsburgh from winning two games as Mungo held them to seven hits and one run in the eleven inning opener and Taylor smacked two homers to gain a 2-1 decision for Brooklyn. The Bucs lost little time in smacking Owen Carroll and two successors for an 11-7 victory in the second clash.

Fred Frankhouse, of Boston, and Bud Tinning of Chicago waged a scoreless duel for seven innings, then the Braves cut loose and scored six runs in the eighth to win 6-1. The Phillies and Cards waged a pair of exciting struggles, St. Louis winning the first 7 to 6 in 12 innings when Jimmy Collins smacked a homer to break up the battle and the Phils won the second 2-0 as Austin (Cy) Moore got the better of Dizzy Dean in a mound duel.

Local Team Just Like Cubs: Can't Hit In The Pinch

The Scriven's Independents soft ball team were unable to hit in the pinches last evening in their game with the Standard Dairy with the result that they lost a closely contested battle by a score of 8 to 7. Lowell Whitebread, who started pitching for the Independents, registered a home run. "Bus" Carlson finished the twirling for Whitebread and proved very effective. Errors in the sixth inning when the score stood 7 to 4 in favor of the Independents permitted three runs to score for the dairymen which was sufficient to win the game.

COUNT ON MANY LOCAL FANS TO SEE OLD TIMERS

Will Accompany Ward Miller To Chicago Next Sunday

(Telegraph Special Service)

Chicago, Aug. 17—Ward Miller, who is chief deputy sheriff out Dixon way, and who is listed with the old time major leaguers who will oppose a team of former semi-pro players in a baseball game Sunday at Mills Stadium as a part of Bill Harley day, is going to head a contingent of 100 people from Dixon. Miller formerly played with the Cubs and he will be one of the group of nine ex-Bruins who will appear Sunday. The others are Jimmie Archer, George Pierce, Eddie Stack, Mordecai Brown, Reggy Richter, Morrie Schick and Jack McCarthy.

Ten White Sox of other days are listed as follows: Joe Benz, Lou Fienne, Jimmy Callahan, Joe Kernan, Phil Chouinard, Suk Kavannaugh, Jack Kernan, Ray Demmitt, Buns Glennon and Otto Jacobs. Nine other major league clubs will be represented.

This game which will start at 1:30 will be followed by a regulation game between the Mills and Altoona Pa. teams. Preceding the games and in between, several entertainment features have been planned. Kid Howard is sending his dance band as one of the musical bits.

The ex-majors are confident of victory. Loudly pointing to a pitching staff of Mordecai Brown, George Pierce, Cubs, and Joe Benz of the Sox with Jimmy Archer, Cubs and Ed Sweeney, Yankees as catchers.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute. See at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

by the players is evidenced by the fact that they are insisting upon getting together this week for a workout. Unable to talk them out of the idea which was put forth by Jimmy Archer, it was suggested that they choose Thursday, so as to give the aged and infirm an opportunity to recuperate from the ravages of exertion so as to be in shape by Sunday.

As it now stands, 82 players, evenly divided between the two groups, have expressed a desire to participate in the event, and as many more from out of town, unable to be here, have been placed on an honor roll.

The advance sale of seats opened Monday and President Bill Vecek of the Chicago Cubs was one of the first with his order for 50 tickets. Vecek is a former famous sports writer, and years ago he wrote under the non de plume of "Bill Bailey."

Nelson Scored In Ninth To Defeat Dixon Wire Makers

The Nelson Cardinals scored three runs in the last of the ninth inning Sunday to defeat the Reynolds Wire company team of Dixon by a score of 10 to 8. Ortigiesen was on the mound for the Cards and allowed 15 hits and hit two batters. McClintock started for Dixon but retired at the end of the seventh inning after a four run rally gave the Cards a 7 to 6 lead. Becker failed to stop the Cards who came back with three hits and a batter was struck by a pitched ball, the last hit being a line drive to left center with the bases loaded by M. Gale. The game was enjoyed by a large crowd of happily excited fans. Ortigiesen fanned nine, McClintock, 6 and Becker none.

"Hi" DRIVING COST gets the last laugh when cheap roads are laid. For it's High Driving Cost—the excess cost of use—that makes taxpayers pay plenty for "bargain" roads.

Every type of road has its dollars-and-cents cost of use. These costs have been obtained by impartial road tests carried on by government and state engineers since 1917. They show why the "cheap" roads cost more than the high-type roads, even when traffic volumes are moderate. And they prove, as you probably thought, that a CONCRETE ROAD costs LESS TO USE than any other kind.

WHEAT SCHEMES ARE EXPECTED TO PAY OWN WAY

Farm Adviser Yale Is In Receipt Of Further Information

The government plan for adjusting wheat production, details of which are now being placed before Lee County wheat growers, will largely pay its own way both in operating expenses and in compensation payments to be made to farmers who cooperate in the program, according to Farm Adviser Chas. E. Yale. This is in line with the announced policy that the wheat plan should be self-supporting, rather than a drain upon the Federal treasury, he pointed out.

While county farm advisers and the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois are cooperating in getting the plan started in Illinois, much of the responsibility for administering the system will rest with the county wheat production control associations made up of farmers who participate in the program, it was explained.

Cost of operating these associations will be paid by the members themselves, each paying according to the number of bushels in his individual allotment. It is estimated that these local association expenses will not cost the participating farmers in most wheat territories more than two cents a bushel on their allotments, leaving them approximately 28 cents a bushel out of the tentative rate of payment. This bushel cost probably will be lower in counties of heavy wheat production and possibly somewhat higher in some counties of lesser production.

On their 1933 crop alone, wheat producers of Lee County will receive approximately $38,328 after association expenses are paid. This money will come in the first instance from funds appropriated by Congress for that purpose, but the wheat adjustment plan calls for this to be paid back to the Treasury out of receipts from processing taxes to be paid on milled wheat.

While part of the tax may be passed on to the consumer, in the form of higher bread prices, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has pointed out that the full processing tax, levied on the basis of present market prices, would not increase the cost of a loaf of bread by more than about one-half cent. The Secretary is empowered under the adjustment act to take steps to prevent possible attempts to spread bread prices unfairly as a result of the processing tax. It is also felt that some slack can be taken up in distribution costs, narrowing the spread between the price the producer receives and the price the consumer pays.

Even though they are tenants and move this fall, growers who planted and produced wheat for the 1933 crop will get adjustment payments under the government wheat program, according to Mr. Yale. This ruling requires, of course, that the farm which the tenant operated in 1933 grew some wheat in the base period, had some wheat down for the 1933 harvest and carries a signed contract for participating in the acreage adjustment program for 1934 and 1935.

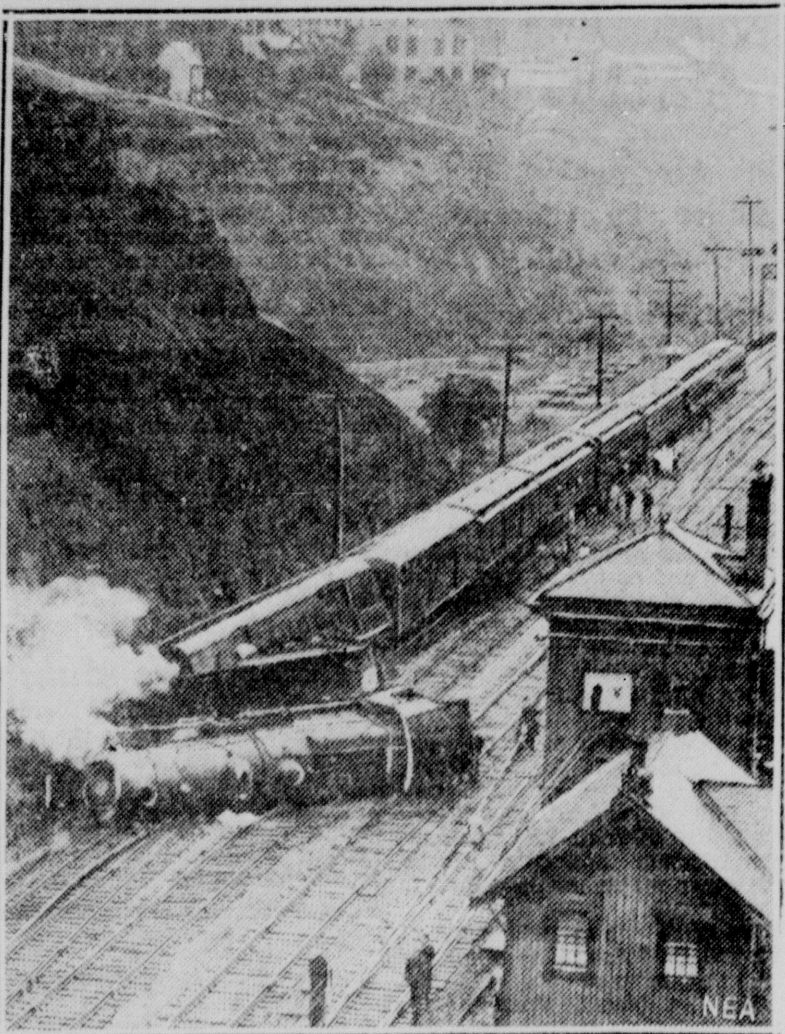

"The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is beginning a three-year reduction plan," officials pointed out. "The payment this fall is for the 1933 crop. Nature did the reducing this year. The wheat administration will help farmers in the next two years to hold the gains made this season."

"The program is fairly simple where tenants do not move. The landlord and tenant agree to adjust acreage, and the payment is divided between them according to the share each gets of the crop."

"The big problem arises when the tenant is moving from the farm this fall, as some already are planning. Here the payment for 1933 must be between the landlord and the tenant who farmed the land in 1933."

"Suppose a tenant had 60 acres of wheat in 1933. His share is two-thirds of the crop, and the average annual production of the farm for the base period is 828 bushels. The owner decides to change tenants in 1934. He and the new tenant agree to reduce the acreage to 48 acres in

When Crack Express Cracked Up

Plunging from the tracks as it swung around a curve near Pittsburg, Pa., the locomotive of the Duquesne Express of the Pennsylvania railroad overturned, dragging the tender and two cars from the rails. This photo was taken a few minutes after the wreck. The engine crew was injured, and 300 passengers were shaken up.

1934, if that reduction, but the new tenant does not share in the adjustment payment on the 1933 crop. The total 1933 payment of about $125 on the allotment of approximately 447 bushels for this farm would be divided between the owner and the 1933 tenant, with the tenant getting $83.34, or two-thirds and the landlord getting $41.66, paid in fall and spring installments. The benefits thus are divided in the same proportion as the crop is divided under the lease.

"The allotment right is attached to the land, and the owner must see that succeeding tenants fulfill the contract. The owner receives his share each year, and the remainder goes to the tenant who produces the crop on which the payment is based. The tenant who farms the land for the 1934 crop will get his share of such payments as are made on the crop."

Everyday Religion

THE POSSESSED

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

Of a great cause in which he was absorbed, the late Bishop Brent said, "It is not so much that I possess it as that it possesses me." A dream, a vision of the unity of the church, took hold of him, possessed him, employed his personality as a vehicle and his gifts as so many tools in its behalf. No wonder his life was heroic and happy. Just so Michael Angelo, as a boy, was possessed by a passion for painting. His father was enraged and tried to beat the idea out of his head; but to no avail. In spite of his father and uncles, at the age of thirteen he entered a studio, and became one of the greatest painters that ever lived. His dream gave unity, direction and drive to his life.

Make no mistake; all of us will be possessed by something or other before the end of the day. Jesus told a story about an evil spirit who lived in the heart of a man. All alone, he was lonesome and went away for a time. Weary of wandering, the evil spirit returned and found the heart of the man swept and empty. So he found seven other spirits, more wicked than himself, and they took possession of the man.

It is not a mere fancy, but a psychological fact. One man is a slave of sensuality, driven like a jaded horse, flogged by his passions. Another is possessed by a love of money, and no prisoner in a chain gang is more helpless. Another is eaten up by ambition for power, and sells his soul to get it. Another is conscripted by a great cause, dedicated to a dream of human good, and all his powers are disciplined to its service.

A thrilling poem has the lines: "He whom a dream hath possessed knows no more doubting, no more roaming, no more sorrow. For a dream remembers no past and takes no thought of a morrow." To be possessed by a great cause, a great idea, a great dream, is to be armed against many ills, including dismay, despair, and defeat—even death itself.

No one can be happy or useful or a power among men unless he is possessed by something, or Someone, other and greater than himself. If we have nothing worth dying for we have nothing worth living for!

Do you know this? An average size tire goes round 395 times every minute at only 35 miles an hour! Think what happens when you drive at this speed—or faster! Friction develops scorching heat inside your tires! In many tires other than Riversides this heat separates cords! It weakens the tire, forms internal blisters! When you hit a rock or a bump . . . BANG! A blowout!

You need the added protection Riversides give you! Riversides' Cords—the heart of the tire—are made from extra strong, long staple, premium cotton. Every cord in every ply is dipped in LATEX—100% pure, liquid, virgin rubber. This welds the cords into a super strong unit! It gives Riversides the strongest tire carcass made! It prevents cord separation . . the cause of blowouts!

Why We Save You Money

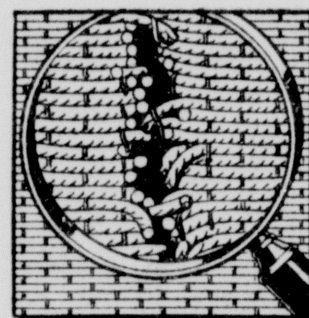

Of course Riversides are made in one of America's largest and best tire factories. BUT—they come direct to us—minus the manufacturer's selling and general overhead expense. That's a saving. The second saving comes from Wards low cost method of distribution. These two reasons explain why we sell high quality tires for less. It's simple to figure out for yourself why Riversides are better in quality, mileage, and safety than any other tire at the same price.

*RIVERSIDE TIRES

will not blow out under normal road conditions during the life of the tread if they are kept properly inflated in accordance with the specified air pressure.

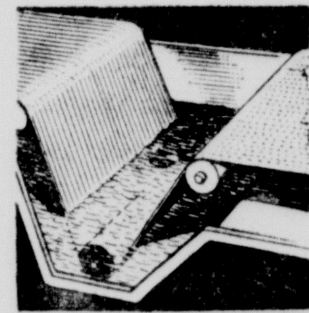

Wards Unlimited Guarantee

For your protection every single Riverside tire is guaranteed by Wards to give service that is satisfactory to you. No time limit! No mileage limit! A tire has to be extra good—has to be extra safe to be backed by the strongest tire guarantee ever written!

Cord Separation

This shows how cords inside tires other than Riversides are separated by heat. Cord separation causes internal blisters, weakens the tire. A blowout is the result! Riversides are Blowout Proof because of Latex dipping!

Latex Dipping

By an extra process, every cord in every ply in all Riverside tires is dipped in Latex. This welds the cords into a super strong unit that defies cord separation and blowouts!

Several of the members of the band have received fine photographs of their organization which were taken just preceding their concert Friday evening in Chicago.

Concert This Week

The concert this week will be given at the court house square Friday evening at 8 o'clock, when the following program will be presented:

March, "Militaire Francaise," (Finale, Suite Algerienne) Saint, Saens.
Overture, "Café of Bagdad" Boieldieu.
"Adoration" Felix Borowski.
"Cocanut Dance" Andrew Hermann.
"Reve Angelique" Anton Rubinstein.
Victor Herbert's Favorites Mayhew Lake.
"March of the Toys, Absinthe Frappe, Because You're You, I Can't Do the Sum, I'm Falling in Love With Someone, Gypsy Love Song, Italian Street Song, Kiss Me Again, The Irish Have a Great Day" Polonaise Militaire.
Encores will feature Eugene Lebre singing "Hold Me" and "The Gold Digger's Song."

The first number on the program, the March Militaire Francaise, is a beautiful poem expressing a scene at a wayside chapel. It is devoutly reverent, sacred and lovely.

Polonaise Militaire is a transcription for band of one of the famous numbers for piano.

WHEAT ACREAGE CONTROL TO BE MEETING THEME

Ogle Co. Farm Bureau Arranges A Series Of Discussions

Meetings have been arranged by Farm Adviser D. E. Warren to be held at nine points in Ogle county during the next two weeks to give information regarding the wheat acreage control program in accordance with the National Agriculture Adjustment Act. These are public meetings open to every one who is interested in the subject and will be of particular value to every farmer who raises wheat.

These meetings scheduled are as follows:
Monday, Aug. 21, 8 P. M.—Rochelle high school.
Tuesday, Aug. 22, 8 P. M.—Byron town hall.
Wednesday, Aug. 23, 8 P. M.—Forreston Legion hall.

It is thought that every wheat grower in the county will be able to attend one of these meetings and every one is urged to do so because only those who sign contracts this fall will be allowed to participate in allotment payments during the next two years.

The plan will be thoroughly explained at these meetings and all questions answered if possible.

Plans For Picnic
The "New Deal" for agriculture and what it means to the farmers of Ogle county will be the theme of the address to be given at the annual Farm Bureau Picnic at Oregon fair grounds, Saturday, Aug. 26, by Ed A. O'Neil, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, states John Meyers, County Farm Bureau President.

The wheat acreage control plan and the corn and hog marketing plan which is now being worked out will be explained and it will be an opportunity to learn about the Farm Relief plan first hand from one who has had a very definite part in working it out.

The Forreston Band, it is announced, will be there with 30 players to live up to the program and at 3 o'clock there will be a baseball game between east and west side Farm Bureau teams.

"Any one who cares to come will be welcome," said Mr. Meyers. "Bring your dinner baskets and enjoy the day with us."

The 4-H exhibits will include dresses and other garments made by the eight clothing clubs and pigs and calves raised by boys in the ten livestock club of the county. The grounds will be mowed and the amphitheater cleaned and live stock pens put in first class order, according to Adviser Warren who is in charge of arrangements for the 4-H exhibit.

This is real HEALO weather. Ask your druggist for a box of this wonderful foot powder.

DAILY CEMENT SUPPLY FAILS TO MEET NEEDS

129 Men On Road Work In Whiteside Kept From Full Time

A large number of Whiteside county men, now working on the paving sections 140-141, route 82, extending west from route 83 to Prophetstown, with a spur south into Tampico, are likely to be deprived of their employment unless a compromise is reached between cement manufacturers and the state of Illinois on the price of cement used in highway paving. The daily supply of cement furnished to the contractors on the route 82 pavement is barely sufficient to permit three and one-half hours construction work per day, which not only works a hardship on the contractors, but also makes it unprofitable for the workers to make trips back and forth from their homes each day.

Appeal To State
This route 82 problem has been brought into the open and an appeal has been made to state authorities, also taken up with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, director of the National Recovery Act administration with the hope of securing such action as will keep these men at work. In the event of their loss of employment it is said quite a number of them will be thrown back on the townships in which they live for living needs for themselves and families. There are 129 men employed on the paving job.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—It would be interesting to know what kind of an organization the NRA would have been had President Roosevelt chosen someone besides General Hugh Johnson to take charge of that gigantic project.

No other department of government in Washington seems so clearly to reflect the personality of the man at its head as does the NRA. One has only to walk through the corridors on the fourth floor of the Department of Commerce building to realize this.

The spirit of the man seems to be everywhere. The drive and force so characteristic of him seems to have pervaded the whole atmosphere around NRA headquarters.

NOT EVEN A DOORKNOB—There's no pomp or display around the NRA. While housed in what is generally considered the most pretentious government building in Washington, that's as far as that sort of thing goes with Johnson's outfit.

The accommodations in the various offices are almost bare. And Johnson's office is perhaps the barest. It doesn't even have a door knob any more. So many people kept blundering in by mistake that he had it taken off.

His office is a place where work—hard work is done. You realize it the moment you step inside. It contains only a 'phone, a desk, and a few dilapidated chairs. That's all.

It's much the same with the other offices. Desks that have seen a lot of wear have been pushed into service by the various deputy administrators. There are few chairs, because everybody must keep moving. Hundreds wander up and down the corridors seeking information. Everybody is kept on the go.

Some of the officials change quarters so rapidly that it is almost impossible to keep track of them. Big cars loaded with office furniture parade up and down the corridors at all hours of the day.

BIRTHDAY COOLNESS—The general has permitted himself only one luxury during the long hours he spends at his desk. And he didn't have anything to say about that.

He had a birthday the other day. A group of his associates in the NRA went out quietly and bought a cooling machine and had it installed in his office as a birthday gift.

They were moved to compassion after seeing him working so hard in Washington's terrific heat, collarless and coatless.

He has one other diversion. He permits himself two hours for dinner in the evening. A part of that time is taken up by walking with his little fox-terrier.

And furiously enough the dog's name is "Toughy."

Parted 52 Years, Twins Keep Vow to Dress Alike

London.—Margaret and Agnes were twins.

They looked alike and they thought alike. They agreed that all their lives they would dress alike.

That was when Margaret and Agnes were young.

Then, fifty-two years ago, came marriage—and separation. Margaret became Mrs. Miller of Holland Grove, Heswall, Cheshire. Agnes became Mrs. Clement of Dunedin, New Zealand.

The twins never met again, but they faithfully kept their promise to dress alike.

They discussed their dresses in regular letters and exchanged photographs to show that the similarity was being maintained.

Even their spectacles and watch chains were alike!

Now Mrs. Miller has just died at the age of eighty-six.

SIGNALIZING THE OPENING OF THE FOREST FIRE SEASON

Dense clouds of smoke blanketed the northern peninsula of Michigan and northern Wisconsin as forest fires raged in more than a hundred places, marking the advent of another forest fire season. This photo shows timberland being swept by fire over a six-mile front south of Manitowish, Wis. Thousands of acres of woodland have been burned over, homes and summer cottages destroyed and whole villages evacuated. Careless smokers and berry-pickers who neglected to put out campfires are blamed.

That was when Margaret and Agnes were young.

Then, fifty-two years ago, came marriage—and separation. Margaret became Mrs. Miller of Holland Grove, Heswall, Cheshire. Agnes became Mrs. Clement of Dunedin, New Zealand.

The twins never met again, but they faithfully kept their promise to dress alike.

They discussed their dresses in regular letters and exchanged photographs to show that the similarity was being maintained.

Even their spectacles and watch chains were alike!

Now Mrs. Miller has just died at the age of eighty-six.

HINDU CEREMONIES COST BILLION YEAR

Religious Body Wants the Expenses Reduced.

London.—That the Hindus in India spend something like $1,250,000,000 annually on ceremonial occasions, and that this national budget of the people needs economizing, is the main conclusion and recommendation made in a preliminary report by the Hindu religious committee to his holiness the shankaracharya, Doctor Kurukoti.

A small committee was appointed by his holiness at the end of last year to report on the condition of religious observances in India and their effect on the economic condition of the people. The following are the general conclusions drawn up by that committee in a preliminary report:

Leaving out the Moslems and the depressed classes for the moment, there are 200,000,000 Hindus in British India. These are grouped into about 40,000,000 families. There are about 4,000,000 deaths each year in these families.

Thirteen Day Ceremonies.

Every death means religious ceremonies, lasting for 13 days, which are performed by Hindus of all castes. It has been estimated that 50 rupees per death ceremony would be a very modest estimate. Thus 200,000,000 rupees per year is paid out by the Hindus in what the committee calls "death duties" surrendered to the Hindu society. Part of this is purely for ceremonies. Similarly there are about 5,000,000 births per year among the caste Hindus. The ceremonies in connection with births are much less complicated, as seemingly the passing of man from this life is of more importance than an arrival into the world, and the committee calculates that the total average cost does not exceed 10 rupees per head, including the ceremonies. This would add 50,000,000 rupees to the bill.

During the lifetime of a caste Hindu there are in all 16 ceremonies, including birth and death. In the case of the Brahmins, numbering more than 15,000,000, there are two ceremonies, the death and marriage ceremonies which are the most important.

Marriage is a ceremony of universal importance with Hindus of all castes. It has been estimated that there are in all about 30,000,000 Hindu families in India. The number of marriages per year is estimated at about 3,000,000. But taking into consideration that two families are concerned in the marriage, about 10,000,000 families are affected by it. At the lowest, it is estimated, each of these families spends about 150 rupees on the marriage, bringing the Hindu national marriage bill up to the huge sum of 1,500,000,000 rupees.

The thread ceremony among the Brahmins is the most important, as without it no person has the right to call himself a Brahmin. About 250,000 thread ceremonies take place every year, costing about 30,000,000 rupees.

There are numerous other ceremonies on all sorts of occasions like the new year, the darsara, the festival of lights, etc. Added to all these ceremonies represent an expenditure of 2,750,000,000 rupees, or $1,050,000,000.

Reduction Suggested.

The depressed classes, numbering about 50,000,000, have their annual ceremonial which costs them about 10 rupees per head, adding another 500,000,000 rupees, of $187,500,000 to the huge sum spent on ritual. The committee considers that this is an estimate for very lean years. For the average good year this estimate should be increased by 50 per cent.

Taking the present estimate as the best for the purpose of general consideration the committee thinks that at the present moment, when the government dues are being considered as excessive, an attempt should be made to reduce these religious charges. The government of India's annual revenue is round about $500,000,000. The Hindu spends more than 25 per cent on his religious rites and ceremonies alone. If the income of an Indian per head per year is taken at the official figure of $25, then the Hindu is spending more than 25 per cent of his income on religious ceremonies. After government and other taxes have been paid the Hindu has to live on about 15 cents per week.

The committee considers that a broader and more humane outlook must be taken of this problem of life for the Hindu. They feel that the question must be considered as a whole and that heads of the Hindu religion should be consulted throughout India and that religious ceremonies should be reduced in costs so as to make it possible to undertake religious ceremonies without having to borrow from a money lender to do so.

Cat Mothers Fox Brood

Grants Pass, Ore.—When a mother silver fox owned by Ellis Phillips was unable to care for her offspring, an old mother house cat took up the burden. Kittens and fox pups now crowd in friendly fashion at meal times.

In cities, snow is soon covered with a layer of dirt and soot which darkens its surface and makes it melt faster as a dark surface absorbs more heat.

Look over the dry goods and ready-to-wear ads. That is the way to save money.

Mountaineers Serenade First Lady

Mountain singers, fiddlers and cloggers entertained Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt when she attended the White Top Mountain folk festival at Appalachia, Va. Mrs. Roosevelt's father, the late Elliott Roosevelt, owned land nearby, and was well known in that section. Above, Mrs. Roosevelt stands behind two mountaineers and Douglas Murie Dockery, 6, who are all set to strike up another tune.

Sprinkle Of Crime Has Turned To Bloody Cloud- burst Throughout Nation

Women Figure Prom- inently In Current News Of Crime

(By The Associated Press)

In the silence of the Spokane night there sounded the voice of a woman—the report of shots swiftly fired—the whir of a motor car, its headlights dark, racing away; and on the ground, bleeding from three bullet wounds, lay a dying man.

Who killed Dr. James I. Gaines? Silent, too, was the Virginia countryside near Grundy; silent until there came the scream of a woman—the sound of five shots fired in quick succession. Then silent once more—with three dead men in an automobile.

Who killed them? And there is a thicket near Dover, N. J.; and in that thicket was found the body of a woman who had been murdered. And a woods in New Hampshire—and the body of a woman who, too, had been murdered. And a penthouse in Pasadena, with a woman dead there—murdered, like the others.

Watched Doctor Die
A doctor of Greenwood, Miss., died. He said a woman put poison in his whisky and watched him as he drank it. They hold her today in a cell.

It was grape juice that carried poison death to four persons in Arkansas. Jelly was the medium a Detroit mother used to poison her two children, but they did not die because when they became ill she could not bear to see them suffer, so she called a doctor.

But two children in Chelsea, Vt., died from poison, and the mother who is blamed for their death still suffers—though she is expected to recover—from the same poison.

A man is burned to death in an automobile at Rockford, Ill., and the wife from whom he was separated is being held. "Torch slaying" again is heard.

Women In Current Crime
Women are figuring prominently in the current plague of crime. At Spokane an attractive brunette is being questioned in the inquiry into the slaying of Dr. Gains. She told police she was with the wealthy sportsman and painless practitioner all but ten minutes of the last two hours of his life. A few hours earlier he had been with another woman on a boating trip. She, too, is to be questioned.

It was a third woman, however, who, awakened by shots, found him dying. That was his wife.

A woman, too, is involved in the triple murder mystery of Grundy, Va. Officers said she admitted having been in the car when the men were shot.

Feared Woman
Fear of a woman has been given by Mark H. Shank as the reason for the murder of four members of a family near Malvern, Ark. The woman, Shank said, had been "running around" with Alvin Colley, and had demanded a sum of money under threat of telling Akron, O., authorities some things Shank did not want them to know. So, he confessed, he figured to kill Colley to keep the woman from talking.

Colley, his wife and two Colley children died from the poisoned grapejuice.

A Chinese was killed at Reno yesterday, giving rise to fears that another of the dreaded tong conflicts was under way. New York leaders said, however, that the Reno murder victim was not a member of either the Hip Sing or on Leong tongs.

At Chicago the police and Federal agents pushed forward with new determination today to erase the faux pas by which extortionists slipped through their fingers early in the week. Word of a thwarted kidnap plot against Guy Wagoner, wealthy Fort Worth, Tex., oil operator, was heard; and kidnap threats against August A. Busch Jr., St. Louis brewer, and Henry Chouteau, St. Louis capitalist, were made public.

Agents of the law range the west, riding hard on the trail of the new desperadoes who rob banks and kidnap men of wealth at the points of machine guns. From an office in Washington a sweeping war on crime is being directed. In another office a member of the Roosevelt "brain trust" is concentrating his talents in devising ways to stamp out kidnappers.

A Senate committee in New York listens to the catalogue of racket crimes, seeking ways to break up a form of crime which Senator Cope-land of New York estimates drains to fifteen billion dollars annually from Americans.

The sprinkle of crime has turned, for the moment, into an ugly, crimson cloudburst.

WETS CONFIDENT MISSOURI WILL VOTE TO REPEAL

Gov. Park Favors Repeal and Predicts Three
To One Vote

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Wet leaders, who listed the Governor among supporters of their cause, were confident today Missouri would become No. 22 in the repeal column by a decisive although light vote Saturday.

Gov. Guy B. Park expressed belief repeal would win 3 to 1. In this he was joined by Joseph T. Davis, chairman of the state's United Republic Council, who predicted after a canvass the total vote would run less than 500,000, compared with the election vote last November of nearly 1,500,000.

"In almost every section of the state there is apathy on the part of the voters," Davis said. "But nowhere have we found anything to indicate other than preponderant repeal sentiment."

Try To Use Courts
The drys, fighting shy of predictions, have resorted unsuccessfully to the courts, in an effort to block the election, contending the machinery for it was illegal.

Mrs. Nellie G. Burger, president of the state W. C. T. U., at first urged prohibitionists to stay away from the polls. After the state supreme court ruled against the drys in a test case, Mrs. Burger and other leaders then told their followers to choose whatever course of action they desired. G. A. Nelson, St. Louis, has announced efforts will be made in the United States' Supreme Court to halt the election.

Farley Asks For Repeal
Postmaster General Farley sent word to Ruben Hulen, state Democratic committee chairman, not expected the state to go for repeal. Hulen yesterday mailed letters to all county chairmen of the Democratic party urging them to get out a heavy vote.

St. Louis and Kansas City were counted upon to turn in an overwhelming majority for the proposed 21st amendment, which would repeal the 18th Amendment.

Mr. Bixby interfered very little with Barnes' management of the advertising department. In the first months during which Barnes had worked for him, Mr. Bixby had often tried to restrain the younger man's enthusiasms and had required much persuasion to increase the advertising budget to the amount Barnes asked. Gradually, however, as Barnes produced results to justify the increased expenditure, he was allowed to proceed without interference.

Nevertheless Mr. Bixby was opposed to overtime work except on rare occasions when it could not be avoided. There were such times, Eve knew. The days and evenings preceding the semi-annual remnant-day sales were examples. Then, Eve thought, the great department store resembled nothing so much as a madhouse. And now that the rush of Christmas selling was on and the volume of advertising increased accordingly, there was seldom an evening that Eve arrived home on time.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The west's hope of capturing polo supremacy from the east appeared bleak today and there was possibility that Hubert W. (Rube) Williams, its star back, would play no more among the high goal performers in the game.

After winning the opening sectional match, 15 to 11, the Plainsmen yesterday ran into a new eastern combination rigged up by Tommy Hitchcock, and took a 12 to 8 beating. In the seventh period, Williams' few of whose horses have not been broken in the game, suffered a fracture of his right leg below the knee when he fell from his mount.

In addition to trying to figure out a way of stopping the new eastern combination, which included Earle A. S. Hopping, Manager Carleton Burke of the westerners was confronted with the problem of finding additional strength for the deciding match Sunday. When Williams was injured, Adios, number one, had to be shifted to back, with the only alternate, Neil McCarthy, going into the young Irishman's place.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly married DICK RADER, a construction engineer. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

The same day Eve learns that she is to go to New York for the store and must leave that night. Dick takes her to the station but throughout the week in New York she has no word from him. The days there are busy. She meets THERON REECE who is much attracted by her and she visits ERENE PRENTISS, a former schoolmate who is playing the stock market and advises Eve to do the same.

Back at the office a week later Eve finds a new copy writer, MONA ALLEN, who appears to be a trouble-maker. MONA VIAD, fashion artist, and ARLENE SMITH, stenographer, are Eve's friends.

Eve and Dick move into an apartment in an old-fashioned house. Dick seems happy but Eve is discontented. They quarrel one night when she comes home and finds him wearing his working clothes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

MATTERS were smoothed over for the time but the sight of Dick in a flannel shirt at the dinner table—though it was less common after Eve's outburst—continued to irritate her and she could not always conceal this irritation. Once she found herself, to her disgust, comparing Dick's appearance with Theron Reece's careful grooming.

In spite of its shabby setting in the down-at-heel house, Eve could not help but feel pride in her home. Often she found herself dreaming about improvements that could be made in it—ways to rearrange the furniture, an added touch of color here and there—when going through the store's various departments in search of ideas for her column.

Late in the afternoon she sometimes became nervous and worried and could not do her best work because she was almost certain she would be asked to remain after the store's closing hour to help get out the next day's copy.

Mr. Bixby did not know of this, she was sure. Prompt and efficient himself, he tried to exact promptness and efficiency from his department heads, and, through them, from every employee.

But Mr. Bixby interfered very little with Barnes' management of the advertising department. In the first months during which Barnes had worked for him, Mr. Bixby had often tried to restrain the younger man's enthusiasms and had required much persuasion to increase the advertising budget to the amount Barnes asked. Mona left with a triumphant glance over her shoulder.

SHE regretted this. She felt that it was not fair to expect Dick to prepare the dinner every evening, as had become the usual routine. His job had its delays and vexations, too.

He worked hard. He worked in all kinds of weather. Eve was beginning to understand that sometimes he came home more exhausted than the men whose manual labor he directed. She was beginning to understand that Dick would always give more than was required or expected of him to any contract to which he bound himself.

She was thinking of this one December evening after a gray, slushy day gave way to darkness outside the office windows and she typed away, turning the little sheet of penciled notes with pardonable pride. She was wishing that this once she could arrive home before Dick and surprise him with a delicious dinner, piping hot. But of course she could not. Not tonight.

Arlene had had to stay overtime, too, and was transcribing pages of notes that Barnes had dictated late that afternoon. Arlene did not seem to mind particularly. Indeed, Eve suspected that Arlene welcomed this extra work, although she received no remuneration for it.

Eve wondered if Arlene were interested in some man in the store. "It's strange," she thought, "how most men overlook a girl of Arlene's straightforwardness and then let themselves become enamored by some one like Mona Allen."

Today, busy as the advertising office had been, Mona had come in late after lunch, her blond hair elaborately waved. And that afternoon, on pretense of securing notes for advertising copy,

RELIEF FUNDS INADEQUATE TO FULFILL NEEDS

Secretary Of State's Committee Issues Warning Today

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, has advised the Lee County Emergency Relief Committee that emergency relief funds available for the remainder of 1933 will be inadequate to meet the needs of the state unless marked reductions in relief costs are effected.

In a statement sent to D. H. Spencer, chairman of the Lee County Emergency Relief Committee, Mr. Reynolds said: "Illinois must depend on two sources for its emergency relief funds during the remainder of 1933. These are the collections from the two per cent occupational tax, and the funds which the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator will make available to Illinois on a matching basis. These two sources of income will not produce the estimated funds needed for the balance of the year. As a consequence, the commission shall be obligated to take drastic action to conserve the funds it is to administer."

Mr. Spencer says that the workings of the National Recovery Act and the general upswing in employment should reduce the number of persons requiring aid in the county. "Any general upturn in business is bound to have a favorable effect on local conditions," he says. "As long as employment continues to increase, we may expect a favorable reaction in Lee County and resulting drops in our relief loads."

Load Dropped In July

"The county's relief load showed a material drop in July, as compared to June. Further reductions are expected during August, and if favorable trends in employment continue, we hope to reduce our loads continuously during the coming months."

"The local relief administration has been examining and will continue to examine the relief rolls

TOLD FRIENDS HOW KRUSCHEN TOOK OFF 78 POUNDS OF FAT

"I weighed 247 lbs. when I began taking Kruschen and in exactly a year I lost 78 lbs. All my friends wanted to know what I was doing and I'm glad I could tell them. Several began taking Kruschen and are getting the same results. I can never recommend Kruschen too highly." Mrs. Cora Green, Dallas, Texas.

You, too, can banish double chins, bulging hips and fat ankles and be attractively slender without risking money or health—rather you'll gain in energy, vivaciousness, clear skin, bright eyes and acquire glorious health perfection. Simply take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water first thing every morning.

If not joyfully satisfied after first trial, money back from Doan Brothers.
